Water goes Primetime

If you tuned in March 6 for "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition," you might have noticed Waterplay Manufacturing playing a starring role. "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition" is a popular show that takes over a family's home and rebuilds it in five days with innovative ideas that fit for the whole family.

The Harris family of nine, which includes sextuplets, were the recipients of a brand new house including a backyard Waterplay spraypark. The spraypark consisted of custom graphic water-os with panels of a bear and a honey pot, towering flowers, water cannons painted as bees and a series of ground sprays.

Craig White of Waterplay commented, "The backyard market is a great place for Waterplay products as a standalone park or to complement a pool. We feel great knowing that the Harris children will have endless hours of fun interactive play, and that their parents can relax knowing that they are safe."
